Dear Abby

Where There's A Will...

Dear Abby: I've got a problem. I am 14 and look worse than my brother. In other words, I am flat-chested. I am so discouraged I don't know what to do. Please don't tell me to wait, because I have waited 14 years and nothing has happened.

FLAT CAT

Dear Cat: You will have to rely on your other good points for now. If, at age 16, you are still concave where you should be convex, find yourself a lingerie shop, and you'll come out ahead in nothing flat.

Dear Abby: Our 12-year-old doesn't know the first thing about how to handle money, and his father isn't helping him any.

The boy gets $2.00 a week just for breathing. He is supposed to keep his room picked up for this, but he won't hang up his trousers without a fight. He has never saved a dime in his life. He had four teeth extracted this summer and, since he is too big for the "fairy" to leave money under pillow, his Dad paid him a dollar a tooth.

I am against handing out money for no reason at all. My husband and I are having some heated arguments over it. What would you do?

ALWAYS THE LOSER

Dear Loser: Before you can teach your small boy how to handle money, you should teach your big boy how to handle his son. He is doing the boy no favor by giving him the idea that the world owes him something. Make him work for what he gets, and he'll appreciate it more. And insist that he save something — if it's only a dime a week. Building a bank account is one phase in building character.

Dear Abby: A new man recently joined our company. He is middle-aged and very attractive. He announced right off the bat that he was married. Knowing this, we single girls didn't get our hopes up. I work where the records are kept. I saw his application for employment, and he filled in "BACHELOR" where it had "MARITAL STATUS." I can understand why a married man would try to pass himself off as a bachelor — but why should a single man lie and say he is married? I don't get it.

JUST NOSY

Dear Nosy: The gentleman obviously doesn't want to be bothered. So don't bother him.

"Are things rough?" Let Abby help you solve your problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and send to Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Woman Dies In Head-on Crash

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (AP) — A Greene County woman was killed and two other persons injured Saturday in a head-on crash of a car and truck on Route 19 about 10 miles south of this Greene County community.

Mrs. Dorothy Sustrick, 54, of Mt. Morris, was dead on arrival at Greene County Memorial Hospital.

Listed in critical condition at the hospital was the truck driver, John W. Chole, 58, of Morgantown, W.Va. He suffered chest and internal injuries.

In fair condition with head injuries and face cuts was Mrs. Sustrick's three-year-old grandson, John Sustrick.

Mark Date Of Woman's Suffrage

HYDE PARK, N. Y. — Mrs. Louise John, vice chairman and director of women's activities of the Pennsylvania Democratic state committee, said yesterday, "the Democratic party has always been the forerunner in equal rights for women and it has always recognized the ability of qualified women in public office."

She made the statement at a garden party at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt to commemorate the 41st anniversary of woman's suffrage in the United States.

In other remarks Mrs. John commended the Pennsylvania General Assembly for its passage of a resolution to memorialize the Congress to adopt the equal rights for women amendment.

She pointed out that more than 2,500 women were seeking election in various offices in the state and said this was proof of the Democratic party's recognition of qualified women for civic leadership.

Mrs. John spoke of the Democratic party's backing of three other women for state offices. The women are Miss Anne X. Alpern, Genevieve Blatt and Mrs. Grace M. Sloan.

Miss Alpern is the first woman to hold the office of justice of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court. Miss Blatt the first woman to be elected to a state office, and Mrs. Sloan the first woman to serve as state treasurer.

Argument Starts Fatal Shooting

PITTSBURGH (AP)—An argument outside a Hill District tavern Saturday ended in the fatal shooting of a bar patron and the wounding of two others.

In jail charged with murder is William Alexander, 31, of Pittsburgh. Police said Alexander, refused admittance to the tavern, whipped out a pistol and fired into a crowd of people.

Ernest Hendley, 41, was shot through the head. He was dead on arrival at Mercy Hospital. Larnell Goodman, 43, and Charles Horne, 38, were each shot in the left foot.

YOUR STANDARD OF LIVING

Business helps keep it constantly improving—your telephone company illustrates how

You want a better life and a rising standard of living for yourself and your family. American business shares these goals with you.

Business provides you with the products and services you want and need at prices you can afford to pay. More products and services for everybody, through growth, is a constant goal of business. Business growth brings advantages other than abundance, too. It increases the total number of jobs, the chance to move ahead for all those with the ability and desire to do so, the security of every family, the prosperity and strength of America. Your telephone company is an example of growth, for it has expanded steadily since its founding. Each week its investment in growth and improvement puts millions of dollars into Pennsylvania pocketbooks and cash registers.

Business, through continuing research, helps bring you new and better things. At an ever-faster pace, the improvements created by research have increased everyone's standard of living. Your telephone company is a good example of how this has worked. Bell Telephone Laboratories has pioneered in important civilian communication services such as Direct Distance Dialing and has also made vital contributions to defense and the exploration of space. Its continuing progress in solving communications problems will improve telephone service and many other things as well. World-wide communication by satellites, for example, is already close to a reality.

Business supports the progress that enriches your life. You want, for yourself and your family, better schools, parks, libraries, recreational and cultural facilities—all the services that help you live a rewarding and useful life. It is a firm principle of the American system that the increased number of dollars required for stepped-up social progress can best be obtained through economic growth. Enlightened business is also assuming more and more social responsibilities on its own. Bell Telephone, for example, is active in community development programs, in safety training, and in stimulating the interest of students in electronics, mathematics and economics.

The incentive for business to achieve its goals is the reward of adequate earnings. Adequate earnings both stimulate good business performance and inspire business growth. They are at the core of a better life and a rising standard of living for us all.

Two million people are now Bell System share owners. This is by far the largest number of investors in any business, and it dramatically attests to the faith the public has in the Bell Telephone System's ability to maintain the adequate earnings so vital to a better standard of living.

Administration Backs Mine Bill Compromise

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Lawrence Administration gave its backing to a compromise on strip mine refilling Sunday as the legislature geared for a windup of the 1961 session this week.

House Majority Leader Stephen McCann sent telegrams to legislators from the bituminous and anthracite regions asking them to sit down with him and Mines Secretary Lewis E. Evans Monday morning to discuss the compromise.

Evans was prepared to recommend they go along with the measures. He feels that the compromise, particularly as it applied to the bituminous bill, would provide Pennsylvania with the best regulations in the nation and, furthermore, is the best that can be obtained from this legislature.

The United Mine Workers Union, which last week used its influence to force tightening of the stripping bills after the Senate had amended them, was silent on whether it would yield to the compromise.

Meanwhile, as the legislature prepared to meet a tentative final adjournment set for Thursday night proposed improvements in the state's educational system were moved into position for a final showdown.

The key measure in the package is a bill that would levy a 2 per cent tax on royalties, dividends and capital gains, to raise an estimated $23 million to pay for the program.

It squeaked through the House last week. The administration must keep all 25 Senate Democrats and pick up one of the 25 Republican votes to pass the tax bill.

There were reports that there would be two to five GOP votes, but administration sources said that, as of the moment, they have not been able to count on a single GOP supporter.

Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom issued a week-end statement urging all GOP senators to oppose the bill.

The Senate also has to give its consent to a bill mandating reorganization of the state's 2,244 school districts into larger districts with a minimum enrollment of 2,500 to 4,000 pupils.

Other major issues: Congressional reapportionment—There were no signs of an agreement on a plan to redistrict the state's congressional districts to allow for the drop from 30 to 27 seats in Pennsylvania's representation in Congress. Unless an agreement shapes up this coming week, it appeared this issue would have to go over to a special session next January.

Lobbyist control—The administration planned to confer with its legislative leaders to determine whether to accept the present watered-down lobbyist bill passed by the Senate or to make a fight for a stricter measure.

Boys Pulled To Safety From Well

GLOVERSVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—Two brothers, 3 and 5 years old, fell into a dry 25-foot well behind their rural home near here Sunday. They were rescued by a state trooper and pulled to safety 2 1/2 hours later.

The youngsters, Brian Surnear, and his younger brother, Kevin, had lapsed into unconsciousness when state police arrived. Oxygen was pumped into the hole, and after about 20 minutes, the boys revived and began to cry.

After their rescue, they were admitted to Nathan Littauer Hospital here for observation. "They were scared to death, both of them, and they were covered with dirt," said a rescue worker, "but otherwise they appeared in good shape."

The hole was about 18 inches in diameter and was one of several drilled on the property in an unsuccessful search for water, state police said. It was about eight feet from the back door of the Surnear home about two miles east of Gloversville.

Hole Covered
Fulton County Sheriff Chris Pencheff said the hole had been covered with a piece of cardboard.

The blond, blue-eyed youngsters, playing near the hole, apparently kicked the cardboard aside and fell into the hole feet first, he said.

Troopers reported that the boys at first were lodged about 10 feet from the top. Their father, Robert C. Surnear, tried with a rope for half an hour to rescue them, but when they slipped to the bottom of the shaft, he summoned help.

Rescue workers tried dangling a rope into the well, but were unable to explain to the frightened boys what to do with it.

Finally, Trooper Glen Chandler looped the rope around the arm and shoulder of the older boy, and he was quickly pulled to safety.

A few minutes later, Chandler managed to loop the rope around Kevin's wrist, and he and the sheriff pulled him out.

Scouts To Hold Court Of Honor

BARRETT — Members of Boy Scout Troop 89 will participate in a Court of Honor Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

A model campsite will be on display at the POA Hall in Mountainhome. The scouts will present a scoutcraft demonstration.

Robert Weidner and Ivan Wicks announced the beginning of a recreation drive for boys in the Barrett area between the ages of 11 and 13. Interested boys and their parents are invited to attend the Court of Honor and learn about scouting.

Senate Considers Shelter Tax Bill

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — Monroe County residents interested in something "tax free" might do well to watch the progress of Senate Bills 895 and 896, up for third and final reading in the upper chamber today.

The bills are simple ones and provide specifically that "all buildings, structures or improvements used solely for fallout shelter purposes" shall be exempt from county, city, borough, township, road, school and county institution district taxes. The legislation is in the form of an amendment to the "County Code" and the fourth to the eighth class county assessment law (Monroe County is a seventh class county).

Lawmakers have underscored the point that the "tax free" buildings in question would have to be used "solely" for fallout shelter purposes—thus eliminating possibilities of a combination basement "game room" and fallout shelter.

And then there is this thought expressed by one lawmaker when the legislation was under consideration last week: "Of course, when they start throwing nuclear stuff around, it won't make much difference whether it's tax-free or not—and for the guy who doesn't have a shelter, chances are good he won't be around anyway to worry about what he missed!"

Driver Held On Bail In Man's Death

WILLIAM Van Why, 34, of Kistler St., East Stroudsburg, was released on $500 bail over the weekend to appear before the Budd Lake Municipal Court, Sept. 7, on a charge of manslaughter.

The charge was preferred following the death of Irving Sirkis, 65, of Brooklyn, N. Y., whose car collided with Van Why's tractor-trailer on Route 46, just east of Budd Lake, N.J., Friday at 10:30 a.m.

Mount Olive Township Police Chief John Connolly said Sirkis, who was traveling east, veered across the center line and was crushed beneath the rear wheels of the oncoming Van Why unit.

It was first believed that Sirkis had suffered a heart attack but an autopsy at the Dover General Hospital, Dover, N. J., set the cause of death as a crushed chest.

Delinquency Continues To Climb

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate investigating group reported Sunday a continued rise in juvenile delinquency, "largely among the children of the so-called white collar classes."

The Juvenile Delinquency subcommittee said its figures cover a detailed study from 1940 through 1959 plus a significant preliminary study covering much of 1960. It asked for more federal aid to combat the problem.

In an accompanying statement Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., the subcommittee chairman, said the group's inquiries have shown the illegal traffic in drugs and drug addiction among children are at an all-time high in the United States.

The report told "an alarming change in patterns" of juvenile delinquency since 1940. It said the number of cases was 177 per cent greater in 1959 than in 1948, reaching a record high of 773,000 juvenile court cases involving 666,000 children 10 to 17 years old.

The report said "big cities are still by far the greatest producers of delinquents," but told of a 7 per cent rise in youth delinquency in suburban areas and a 15 per cent rise in rural areas in 1959. "This trend to the suburbs" in juvenile crime is a clear indication that the increase is largely among the children of the so-called white collar classes," the report said.

"National and state police officials report that there are increasing occurrences of vandalism, muggings, burglaries, larcenies and crowd disturbances emanating from the ranks of those who have no reason for committing these crimes except for so-called thrills," the subcommittee said.

Confair Predicts 1966 Finish Date

WILLIAMSPORT—Z. H. Confair, president of the Keystone Shortway Assn., has set his sights on a 1966 target date for completion of the 300-mile Shortway.

He made his forecast in the face of earlier predictions that the Stroudsburg-Sharon route would not be finished before 1970 or 1972.

KSA officials, including Confair and Executive Director C. E. Noyes, are optimistic that the eastern half of the federal interstate project will be opened to traffic in time for the New York World's Fair in 1964. That would include the stretch from White Deer, near Milton, East to Delaware Water Gap.

William R. B. Froehlich, chief deputy secretary of highways for Pennsylvania, told Shortway backers at Milton last week that construction work is progressing on various segments of the limited-access highway and that other sections are in various stages of planning and design.

Speaking at ground-breaking ceremonies for the twin-bridge system which will cross the Susquehanna River near Milton, Froehlich revealed that bids will be opened Sept. 29 on two sections of the Shortway in Montour and Northumberland Counties.

Final designs also is under way easterly from Mifflinville through Luzerne County to Crescent Lake, Monroe County, the official said.

"Once we are in final design, construction is not far away," Froehlich remarked.

State Police Arrest Two For Larceny

TWO Philadelphia youths were committed to the Monroe County jail yesterday on charges of larceny.

Carmen Affatato, 19, and Francis A. Rack, 19, were arrested by Trooper Peter Walsh of the Stroudsburg State Police.

According to Walsh, the youths were at a Bartonsville gas station and put a tire and a tube on their car. Then they drove away without paying for the tire.

They were placed in jail in default of $1,000 bail.

College Hosts Navy

The State Teachers College had two graduations Friday. One involved the members of its Summer senior class. The other involved a group not often seen on a campus like the one in East Stroudsburg.

A class of 80 top Naval Reserve officers just completed two weeks at the college, going back to the classroom. These officers are administrators of part-time schools for Naval Reserve officers across the nation.

They came here from Florida and Maine, from Southern California and Seattle, from Texas and Michigan, to concentrate their study on the subject of leadership.

"Leadership?" you may ask. "Aren't the armed forces supposed to have leadership already?"

Yes, and they have it. The United States Navy has a great tradition of leadership dating back to the doughty Revolutionary warrior, John Paul Jones. The Navy needs to bow to none in its contributions to the field of national leaders.

Yet the Navy is teaching leadership these days, and with a specific purpose. It wants to make its officers even more proficient in the field. The American citizen should be interested in this effort, for it will mean more effective defense for the country and more effective use, too, of the tax dollar.

The three facets of leadership which the Navy program seeks to emphasize are personal example, good management and moral responsibility. This concept is outlined in a general order issued by the secretary of the Navy in 1958.

The urgency with which the Navy regards leadership is reflected in the fact that this directive is designated General Order 21—the 21st such order that has been issued in the Navy in more than a century and a half.

Since the order was issued, the Navy has pressed a program among its regular components to upgrade the leadership qualities of its officers and men. The seminar at State Teachers College has sought to formulate a program to be followed in 103 Naval Reserve Officers' Schools involving more than 110,000 Naval Reserve officers in more than 63 cities in the United States.

The subject of the seminar has probed deeply into a basic need of our American society—leadership based on moral concepts is a need not just of military or naval activities but of all activities of our society.

It is good to see the U. S. Navy setting an example that should be followed by all of us. It is particularly gratifying to have had the Stroudsburg area host the first concentrated effort to encourage improvement of leadership traits in a most important nationwide Naval Reserve officers' program.

Act On Reapportionment

If the State Legislature fails to act on some plan for Congressional reapportionment there is only one alternative:

Pennsylvania's allotted 27 congressmen will have to run for election on an at-large basis in 1962. It means each congressional candidate will have to campaign state-wide and that those who do win will represent no one district as now.

This plan could adversely affect every voter in the state. Lost would be the relatively easy access a resident of Delaware County now has to his representative in Washington.

Even more to be lamented is that all 27 congressmen from Pennsylvania would likely come from one political party, placing enormous power in the hands of that party's state leader.

Because of the drop in the population of the state it is a certainty that three of the present 30 congressional seats will be lost in the 1962 election.

Unless the House of Representatives is enlarged, and that appears unlikely, our state legislators must be realistic and adopt some reapportionment bill.

At the present time it appears that the only action in the offing is the anti-Green move being organized to block reported efforts by the Philadelphia Democratic leader to keep six congressional seats in that city by politically annexing parts of the suburbs.

However, the suburban legislators appear to be on the defensive in this move. May it be suggested, as most military strategists will agree, that the best defense is a strong offense. The state legislators from the suburban areas should by now have drawn a reapportionment bill and had it started through the two legislative bodies.

They should act now so that when a vote does come on reapportionment they will be able to vote for a measure that will be fair and equal to everyone.

The Pennsylvania Story

Boys From Somerset Ready But Can't Use Their Tanks

By MASON DENISON
(First Of Three Parts)

HARRISBURG — This is a story we'd rather not write. This is a story that shouldn't have to be written.

It's a story of which we're somewhat ashamed — because it is a sorry reflection on the stupidity, the sloppiness with bureaucratic fumbling in this democracy as we know it too often is infested.

We the people are the sufferers — and yet at the same time we the people are responsible; responsible for permitting such a condition to exist.

This story of course takes place in Pennsylvania — but conceivably it could happen almost anywhere. We don't know about the latter — we do know about the former.

This then is "The Story Of The Boys From Somerset."

Somerset County is in the southwestern part of the state, along the Maryland border. It isn't a large county, as counties go — only around 77,000 people. It's one of the older counties though—having been formed back in 1795, rich in historical lore and tradition.

The people out there are good hardy folk, many descendants from staunch colonial stock, early settlers who grubbed the land back in the eighteenth century.

Today Somerset counts like to refer to their area as the "Roof Garden of Pennsylvania" — its high elevation (over 2000 feet) — having much to do with this nomenclature, plus its rustic and scenic beauty. The folks there too are proud of its high ranking maple syrup industry, tops in the state and near the top throughout the entire nation.

This then is the backdrop, the background, of "The Story Of The Boys From Somerset."

That part of the story we're delighted to relate. The upcoming part we do so with reluctance — for it is a reflection of inadequacy, incompetence, an insult to the very people of Pennsylvania, and for that matter—to those within democratic society who place their well-being, their security in the hands of a comparative few.

This then is the story: In Somerset County — in fact in the county seat town of Somerset — is headquartered a Pennsylvania National Guard unit: "C" Company of the 2nd Medium Tank Battalion.

"C" Company was converted to an armored unit from an infantry line unit January 1, 1959.

Today Somerset counts like to refer to their area as the "Roof Garden of Pennsylvania" — its high elevation (over 2000 feet) — having much to do with this nomenclature, plus its rustic and scenic beauty. The folks there too are proud of its high ranking maple syrup industry, tops in the state and near the top throughout the entire nation.

This then is the backdrop, the background, of "The Story Of The Boys From Somerset."

That part of the story we're delighted to relate. The upcoming part we do so with reluctance — for it is a reflection of inadequacy, incompetence, an insult to the very people of Pennsylvania, and for that matter—to those within democratic society who place their well-being, their security in the hands of a comparative few.

Security Is Important

Business is business but the security of our nation is more important. At the present time, the United States has an embargo on exports to Soviet Russia, Red China, Cuba and other Communist countries. This embargo is in the national interest. Congress has passed the Export Control Act with a view to protecting the national interest.

The Secretary of Commerce is charged with the execution of this act and under it he issues licenses confidentially unless it is, in his judgment, in the national interest to make such information public.

There are some who believe that all data concerning these licenses, including the name of the person or firm that applies for and received the license should be made public. The Secretary of Commerce, Luther H. Hodges, disagrees with this point of view. He holds:

"By identifying individual business firms, along with other pertinent data, vital information reflecting the trade and commercial position of each company would be revealed. This in turn could and likely would in many instances lead to disruptions of the normal competitive relationships between the many business firms in the export business, and could very well result in reducing the nation's export business at a time when it should be expanded. In addition, I feel that publication of trade information as to individual firms would particularly be of potential damage to the smaller companies in the export business which are in the process of developing their overseas markets and gaining a toehold in a highly competitive business activity."

It seems to me that this is a specious argument. The American people are entitled to know what American firms are trading with the enemy and why. There may be a sound reason for such trade but we should know about it. The American people are also entitled to know what American firms have exported capital to European and Asiatic countries with the object of building plants which can trade with the enemy without restriction.

The publication of such information would not only startle people generally but would shock the stock-holders of such companies who would suddenly discover that the enterprise which they own is engaged in trading with the enemy. Some of them may not believe that dollars are worth that much.

Secretary Hodges also says: "A point of more substance and I think of greater significance is that—from the national interest—the vital information is not what particular company has been licensed to export, but what decision has been made by the government to authorize what commodity to be exported to what country! In terms of the public interest and what should be of public concern it is far more important to know what commodity or item the government has approved for export to what particular country than it is to know the name of the individual business firm that has applied for and received an export license."

The issue here, it seems to me, is not what is more or less important. It is rather that everything is important. The American people are entitled to know everything that goes on in this country and whatever affects them. The Berlin situation is a demonstration of the stupidity of secrecy and of the objection to criticism and debate. The more that is made public, the fewer will be the mistakes made in the interest of those who want government to serve particular rather than general welfare.

It is true that Secretary Hodges can point to his predecessor who set up the precedents which he is following. However, it is to be noted that we are today paying a very heavy bill contracted by these same predecessors who failed to protect American interests. They were among those who made it possible for Soviet Russia to build a new industry on the gifts from the United States, amounting to $11,000,000 during the war period and how much more has yet to be calculated.

The time has come to let the cat out of the bag. Let us know everything about what has been done to the economy of the United States during the past three blighted decades. The more the people know the readier they will be to stand up in support of their government at this critical moment. We have been told of what progress we have made. Where is the progress?

Of course, Merrick is rather a bush-league trouble-maker when compared with others on the Broadway front. There never was a more furious combatant than Jed Harris. The producer-director has mellowed in recent years. But during the 1920's his countless wrangles with players and playwrights enlivened the Main Stem. Although Harris' talent was respected, his self-confessed egotism didn't endear him. And he knew it. He once stamped his checks with: "Local Number One, S.O.B."

George Abbott, probably the most dignified of showmen, has had his troubles with stars. He'd rather function without them. Abbott's logic: "You're always better off if you can do without a star. Besides saving money, it saves wear and tear on the nervous system. I like to concentrate on the play, not the star. A play can't ask you to her dressing room and complain about her troubles."

Temperament is easier to deplore than control. Oddly, yams involving backstage brawls have a more enduring quality than most shows. The fabulous Eva Tanguay was a tempestuous doll. When she was a 24-day queen a manager fined her $100 for missing a performance. She paid it and then belted him across the kisser. He later retaliated by exclaiming: "Eva Tanguay is not a lady."

She responded: "I would be a lady if you were a gentleman."

Tallulah Bankhead and Lillian Hellman once carried on a long and noisy tussle. The crossfire continued for many months in the newspapers. They finally ended up by calling each other bores, with Talu having the last word by zinging: "I called her a bore first!"

Mrs. Patrick Campbell, the long-ago star, was a tenacious feudist? She appeared in a play for three months—and never spoke to other members of the cast offstage.

There are times when personal wars result in triumphs for both sides. Some years ago producer Jay Julien listened to the reading of a melodrama. He sent the playwright, Michael Garza, an acid-soaked note: "I wouldn't want to produce your play because I don't think it's a truthful play. I'll fight anybody connected with this play with words, sabers or fists provided my opponents number not less than one or no more than three at a time."

The Allen-Scott Report

Raul, Che Feuding

WASHINGTON — Two of Cuba's three dictatorial rulers are embroiled in an increasingly malevolent personal and ideological vendetta.

This highly significant undercover power struggle is raging between Raul Castro, tough armed forces commander, and "Che" Guevara, the equally ruthless Argentine-born, hardcore Communist and "economic czar."

Their feuding has become so venomous that the physical "elimination" of one of them is a distinct possibility.

In fact, an attempt already has been made to kill Raul.

As a result, this ambitious, younger and abler brother of Fidel, the beefy "ultimate leader," has sent his wife to Mexico for an indefinite stay.

The abortive slaying attempt occurred while Raul was on a military inspection trip in the heavily wooded hills in the area of the U.S. Navy base at Guantanamo. His route was supposed to be secret.

But his jeep convoy was ambushed and sprayed with machinegun fire and rifle grenades. Raul was slightly wounded, and several others killed.

Intimates of Raul are now laying this near-fatal surprise attack at the doorstep of Guevara. As proof they are citing two facts: Guevara was one of the very few who knew where Raul would be at that particular time, and the Moscow-trained Red is an avowed advocate of assassination of rivals.

Guevara preaches that in his Soviet-published book on revolutionary tactics and guerrilla warfare.

Raul, in turn, quickly and curtly blocked a move by Guevara to undermine the former's control of the army.

The "Hunger Czar" — This occurred while Raul was abroad. On direct orders of Guevara as "economic czar," thousands of troops were put to building and repairing roads, digging irrigation ditches and other work of that kind.

Indignant army commanders cabled word of this to Raul. He immediately flew back to Cuba and countermanded Guevara's action.

They had a heated encounter over this, during which Guevara strongly intimidated Raul was losing his "revolutionary fervor." Raul retorted furiously that he was a "Cuban revolutionary and not an alien."

This was a blunt thrust at Guevara's Argentine birth and Russian ideological background.

Raul also protested angrily to Fidel. He approved Raul's cancelling of Guevara's troop work order, and promised to tell him not to meddle in Raul's command of the armed forces.

Latest development in this potentially far-reaching vendetta is the accusation that Guevara is largely to blame for Cuba's steadily worsening food shortage.

He is being charged with failing to get adequate supplies from Iron Curtain sources — where Guevara is supposed to have powerful connections. He doubtless has, but they haven't paid off much as far as food is concerned.

Fats, lard, meats, rice and other essentials are now being rationed.

Significantly, sources close to Raul have taken to sardonically referring to Guevara as the "hunger czar."

The Old Run-Around — While Cuban housewives are scouring empty grocery stores and markets for food, Guevara's Economic Ministry has announced that Communist Vietnam is sending a shipment of "small tools, machinery, porcelains, plywood and plastics in trade for Cuban sugar, tobacco and other products—which should be a lot of comfort to the hungry. . . . President Dorthicos has accepted an invitation to visit satellite Czechoslovakia, probably next month.

On orders of Guevara, police are cracking down on street vendors. They have been barred from selling a number of so-called "essentials" articles, such as razor blades, thread, soap, toothpaste, toilet paper, candles and nappies for baby bottles. Guevara says the street peddlers are "charging exorbitant prices."

The U.S. is maintaining close scrutiny of shipping to and from Cuba. This is done in a number of ways, including U-2 plane flights. Several or more of them take place over Cuba every week. As a result of this constant surveillance, the U.S. has a detailed record of every shipment to and from Cuba. . . . Fidel Castro is making a new effort to persuade Premier Khrushchev to visit Cuba. Castro has sent a personal message to Khrushchev strongly urging him to come if he attends the UN General Assembly that convenes next month. There have been indications the Soviet ruler may go to New York for that purpose, as he did last fall. . . . Since 1953, the U.S. has expended more than $347 million in military aid to Latin America. Last fiscal year's total was $69,951,000—a record amount. The previous highs were $67 million in 1959 and $65 million in 1953. Brazil tops the list with $144 million; Peru next with $48 million; Chile with $43 million; Colombia with $27 million; Uruguay with $22 million; Ecuador with $13 million; and Venezuela with $16 million.

Inside You And Yours

Best Treatment For Varicose Veins

By Burton H. Fern, M.D.
What's the best treatment for varicose veins — those blue, cork-like bulges beneath the skin when pressure stretches thin vein walls?

Clogged veins, long hours of standing, pregnancy and extra weight all skyrocket this pressure. So do tiny arteries which often pour high-pressure blood directly into veins.

Fight this pressure! Bandage your legs before you get up. A four-inch elastic bandage compresses varicose whirlpools and speeds circulation below the knee. Use a second bandage to support varicose veins on the thigh.

If elastic bandages seem unsightly, wear elastic stockings or rubber-coated nylons. They help. But like veins, stockings stretch and lose their oomph.

Rest A While
At home, lie down for ten minutes every few hours so blood can drain "up" from the legs. At work, the executive type can lean back and prop his feet on the desk.

Even workmen who can't lie down on the job can still do varicose vein exercises. Lift yourself high on your toes, hold, and then come down. Repeat ten times every hour or so.

Sitting Bulls can flap their feet up and down vigorously like Spanish flamenco dancers. If your work demands continuous standing, perhaps your boss can rotate you to a sitting job. A headquarters desk eases varicose veins for policemen who have spent years pounding a beat. And any varicose floor walker will smile happily if seated behind the complaint counter.

Veins Will Stretch
Narrow skin veins will still stretch into new varicose trouble when deep clots channel extra blood through them. You can't expect thin boys to do a man's job.

Reduce and you'll reduce your varicose problem! Cutting calories may help more than cutting veins.

Just remember — while those extra snacks make you happy, they make your legs blue!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

Merrick's Rumbles Better Than Shows

The Broadway Battlefield

The Hoffelds and McCoys have made Broadway a common battleground. And the field is strewn with shattered egos as well as friendship fragments.

The latest rhubarb involved producer David Merrick and Anna Maria Alberghetti, the star. Mr. Merrick, who has been described as "the abominable showman," simply craves publicity. Consequently, he has engaged in public disputes with such twinklers as France Nuyen and Jackie Gleason. In a way, Merrick's rumbles have been more entertaining than many of his shows.

Of course, Merrick is rather a bush-league trouble-maker when compared with others on the Broadway front. There never was a more furious combatant than Jed Harris. The producer-director has mellowed in recent years. But during the 1920's his countless wrangles with players and playwrights enlivened the Main Stem. Dog Caused Accident

Dear Mr. Editor:

I am writing in reply to that lady's letter about the "beast" who ran over a poor little dog.

One night in July, my car was parked on N. Ninth St. when a woman swerved to avoid hitting a dog and ran into my car and two other cars—all parked.

She demolished her own car. But the dog went unhurt.

I have read of three or four other accidents in your paper since then where people swerved to avoid hitting a dog. Now, I like dogs, but if it comes to having an accident yourself rather than hitting a dog or any animal, I have my opinion of what the choice should be.

Granted the cars should have stopped after hitting the dog, but it's just possible the person didn't know he hit anything as I understand that can happen sometimes.

Try and Stop Me

A neglected humorous classic, says Frank Sullivan, is Stephen Leacock's "Gertrude the Governess." Sullivan, a famous humorist himself, particularly likes Leacock's opening paragraph: "It was a wild and stormy night on the west coast of Scotland. This, however, is immaterial to the present story, as the scene is not laid in the west of Scotland. As a matter of fact, the weather was just as bad on the east coast of Ireland. But the scene of this narrative is laid in the South of England."

Later on one will encounter the oft-quoted "Lord Ronald said nothing: he flung himself from the room, flung himself upon his horse, and rode madly off in all directions."

Mrs. Edward Griffin Cole, III
(Paul George Studios)

Beverly Ann Casella Weds Edward Cole, III

Miss Beverly Ann Casella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vito A. Casella of Tannersville, became the bride of Edward Griffin Cole, 3rd, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. William Cole of Charleston, S. C., on Saturday, August 26, at 11:30 a.m. in Our Lady of Victory Church, Tannersville.

The Rev. John Walsh performed the double ring ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass before an altar decorated with gold taper vases of white roses and baby breath.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white imported tulle, fashioned on empire lines with a double motif of Brussels lace encircling the midriff. The scoop neckline extended to the buttoned back which ended in a full chapel train. Her headpiece was a deep pillbox of matching tulle and lace, trimmed in Brussels lace, from which fell a full court veil of pure silk tulle. She wore a single strand of pearls and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white roses, white tulle leaves and baby breath.

Miss Marilyn Jean Casella was her sister's maid-of-honor. She wore a street-length dress of white tulle, with a double motif of Brussels lace encircling the midriff. The scoop neckline extended to the buttoned back which ended in a full chapel train. Her headpiece was a deep pillbox of matching tulle and lace, trimmed in Brussels lace, from which fell a full court veil of pure silk tulle. She wore a single strand of pearls and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white roses, white tulle leaves and baby breath.

Miss Corinne Cassati as bridesmaid was attired in an outfit identical to the maid-of-honor. Miss Diane Casella, a sister of the bride, was a junior bridesmaid and wore a dress and headpiece identical to both attendants, but wore white wrist-length gloves and carried a miniature copy of their bouquets.

Thomas Cole was his brother's best man. James Berry, Oil City, was usher.

The mother of the bride wore a sheath dress of moss green tulle with draped bodice, matching shoes and pillbox hat. She wore oyster white elbow-length gloves, and a corsage of white baby orchids.

22nd Anniversary For Stoefflers

A 22nd wedding anniversary dinner for Dr. and Mrs. J. Ernest Stoeffler, Mountain Road, Delaware Water Gap, was given at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. Harold Mohn, at "Mohncrest," the Mohn's bungalow on Mt. Minis, Friday night, Aug. 25.

In attendance, in addition to the Stoefflers, were: Dr. and Mrs. Mohn, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schawb and their two sons, and Rev. and Mrs. Norman E. Kohler.

Gifts were presented to Dr. and Mrs. Stoeffler by the guests, and a special anniversary cake was baked for the occasion.

Dr. Stoeffler is a professor in Church History at Temple University in Philadelphia, and Dean of the Graduate School of Religion. He has been coming to his summer home on Mountain Road with his family for the past fourteen years.

Dr. and Mrs. Stoeffler were married August 26, 1939 in New Haven, Conn. They have two daughters.

Named To Fashion Post At Centenary

Hackettstown, N. J. — Miss Margaret Mades of Saratoga Springs will be instructor of fashion at Centenary College for Women, Dr. Edward W. Seay, president, announced.

Miss Mades comes to Centenary from Skidmore College, where she taught at the University of New York Teachers College, Pennsylvania State University, and State Teachers College (Farmington, Maine). She graduated with a B. A. degree from Williamette University and received her M. A. from Columbia University. She has taken summer sessions at Oregon State College, Pennsylvania State University, and summer workshops (U. S. Testing Co., Drexel University, and University of Rhode Island).

Her three months travel in the British Isles and on the continent in 1955 included a fashion study tour in France and Italy. During 1958-59 she took sabbatical leave to study arts and crafts in the Scandinavian countries.

She belongs to the American Association of University Women and the Maine Home Economics Association (both of which she has served as secretary), the American Home Economics Association, and the New York State Home Economics Association.

Besides teaching her chief interest is photography and arts and crafts, especially weaving; she has served as clerk for the New England Congregational Church.

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

When a busman takes a busman's holiday by riding on the bus, he generally doesn't volunteer to drive it. But that's where I go the busman one better, because I just couldn't resist letting you in on some unusual highlights of Mary Hock's wedding.

It was, as you might imagine, an efficiently planned affair. The bride and bridegroom got their wedding license in Allegheny County in plenty of time; and with great forethought locked it in the glove compartment of their car. And then the car was stolen!

What made it even more upsetting was that the Allegheny court refused to issue a duplicate, insisting that they go through the process, including another blood test, from scratch. Fortunately they found Monroe County much more cooperative and blood test and license came through in time.

Meanwhile late in the week, the police recovered the car, complete with the first wedding license. So really they could have another wedding next weekend if they chose. And certainly the guests wouldn't object.

In the first place it was such a handsome wedding. Having three tall, good-looking brothers as ushers gets any wedding party off to an impressive start, and the bridegroom fits right in the picture. And identical twin flower girls is another extra-special touch.

Even the guests were as handsome a group of people as you'd ever see assembled. And the chefs at the Manor had outdone themselves on the buffet. They'd made baskets of watermelon for the fruit salad, individual baskets of coconuts and of oranges, and heaped shrimp in iridescent shells.

Even the sun shone on the misty stretches of the rolling hills for the reception, though guests reported that just four miles away, at Naomi Lake, it was pouring rain for the sailboat regatta.

Anyway, it made a very festive start for my week's vacation: during the rest of which I'll be living on hot dogs and baked beans and wearing nothing but shorts and sneakers—well, yes, shirts definitely and sweaters and raincoats, too, probably.

Mrs. Weidner Celebrates 94 Years

Mrs. Annie Weidner is celebrating her 94th birthday today at the Mar-Mont Nursing Home on Normal St. in East Stroudsburg.

In the afternoon, friends and guests at the nursing home will join in celebrating Mrs. Weidner's anniversary by having cake and ice cream.

Cards have been received and are still arriving. Flowers also have been sent.

Well wishers and friends will be welcomed to visit Mrs. Weidner during the afternoon.

Activities End For Crusaders Of St. John's

Bartonville — A picnic on the parish house lawn on August 18, completed summer activities for the Junior Crusaders of St. John's Lutheran Sunday School.

After supper a short business session was held with John Field presiding. A financial report was presented by Sarah Jane Cyphers. Plans were made for the first Autumn meeting when a hot dog roast will be held.

Dorothy Heller showed a film-strip, "Jonah," and colored slides of varied subjects.

Amy Young read the Scripture lesson and led in prayer.

Those attending were Nancy Possinger, Dorothy Possinger, Sarah Jane Cyphers, Joanne Dunbar, Linda Hahn, Amy Young, Scott Young, John Field, Johnny Allegar, and Marvin Possinger. Also the St. Crusader sponsors, Pauline Cyphers, Dorothy Heller, Ruth Dunbar, Blanche Possinger and Thelma Field.

Reunion Sept. 9

The Courtwright-Treible reunion will be held on Saturday, Sept. 9, at the East Stroudsburg Playgrounds with a covered dish luncheon planned for 1 p.m. Families and friends are welcome. Members of the family not able to attend have been asked to write news of themselves for the reunion.

Knapp Shoes Offer Complete Comfort

LOOKING for a shoe that gives real solid comfort? The Knapp Shoe people give you that and many more things in every pair of Knapp Shoes they manufacture. Now in its 42nd year, the company is recognized as the foremost direct-to-wearer shoe company in America.

Kenneth N. Werkheiser, local Knapp Shoe counselor, is one among thousands across the country who have been trained to fit and aid Knapp customers in selecting the proper type shoe for their needs.

Once the size and style of shoe has been determined, the shoes are ordered direct from factory stock and rushed to your Knapp representative for delivery to you. Factory In-Stock Service includes shoe sizes 2 to 18 and widths from AAA to EEEE. There are more than 200 different styles available.

Once a customer has purchased a pair of Knapp Shoes, a complete record is on file with Werkheiser, so that the shoe size and style may be easily duplicated at any time the customer may desire, even by phone if the customer wishes.

Ordering your Knapp Shoes can be done in the comfort of your own home by calling HA 1-1242 or 616 Queen St., Stroudsburg.

The Knapp Shoe Company motto stresses "Value-Service-Quality and Style." One look at the many handsome styles for both men and women will convince you of all these things. Best of all is Knapp's aerotred insole, key to the utmost foot comfort you've ever experienced!

"SEE YOU AT THE FAIR" says Kenneth N. Werkheiser, local representative for Knapp Shoes. The newest styles will be shown by Werkheiser this week at the West End Fair and next at the Lehigh Valley Fair. The sign overhead bears the legend of superior Knapp Aerotred Comfort.

Blauvelt Is New Operator Of Center

THIS WEEK we welcome to the Monday Business Page a new advertiser, Barker Blauvelt, owner and manager of the Hearing Aid Center, 760 Main St., Stroudsburg.

Blauvelt has recently taken over the "Better Hearing Center" formerly owned and operated by Mrs. Marguerite J. Greiner. The Hearing Aid Center features Audivox Hearing Aids.

He is a specialist in this field with eleven years experience and is well qualified in audiometric examinations and the proper scientific fitting of hearing aids. He will continue the same type of service with the daily sale of batteries and cords for most all makes of aids at

IF YOU want to keep the elements out of your house, you have to be sure that it is calked thoroughly. And the calking should be inspected annually to be sure that it is in good condition. An extra inspection should be made just before the start of an exterior paint job.

Calking is necessary where two dissimilar materials meet, in the spaces between butt joints and in the areas around pipes and utility openings. Typical places are the junction of siding with windows, doors and eaves; junctions of porch floors with walls and pillars; junctions of wood siding with masonry of any type; and joints between masonry areas.

Before any type of calking compound is used, the surface must be free of dirt, dust, moisture and oil or grease. Calking should not be applied when the temperature is less than 40 degrees. Gaps deeper than five-eighths of an inch should be filled with oakum before the calking is used.

Most home owners find that the easiest way to apply calking is with a calking gun, of which there are two types. The first is loaded with bulk compound from a container. Easier and less messy is the cartridge type which is loaded with a pre-packed cartridge of compound containing about one-tenth of a gallon.

In applying gun calk, hold the gun at about a 45 degree angle to the surface. The nozzle is beveled to insure the proper angle. Also hold the gun in the same plane as the crevice you are filling - not at right angles. All joints or beads of calking should be at least three-eighths of an inch deep. To estimate the amount of calking needed for a job, figure about 10 to 15 linear feet per cartridge or 100 to 150 feet per gallon.

There are two other types of calking that can be used. One is available in a rope form in various dimensions and a number of strands are coiled in a roll. One or more strands are used for temporary or permanent protection around windows, screens, louvers and miscellaneous joints in the home. This type can be easily removed if the seal is to be temporary and retains its tackiness indefinitely when used as a permanent seal.

Repairs, batteries and cords can be obtained any day of the week at Bud's Men's Shop.

New Fall-Winter Catalog Now Being Received

TAKE 10,000 bathtubs filled with black, red, blue and yellow ink. Add in enough paper to stretch around the world 107 times in a ribbon one foot wide. Blend in the talents and skills of hundreds of artists, copywriters, editors, photographers, models and other specialists.

Mix with 140,000 items produced by workers in 11,000 factories in the United States.

This recipe is now being served to nearly nine million families across the nation - it's the 1961 Fall-Winter general catalog of Sears, Roebuck and Co.

The big five-pound book, long considered an accurate barometer of consumer prices, indicates that you will find general merchandise prices this fall significantly lower than last year. A study of more than 2,300 items in every merchandise category shows Sears average prices are one per cent below those in last year's Fall-Winter general catalog.

Prices are lower in every merchandise group, the company noted. For example: home appliance prices are 3.3 per cent below last year; housewares and home modernization merchandise, 2.4 per cent; specialties, four per cent; home furnishings, six-tenths of one per cent; and wearing apparel, three-tenths of one per cent.

Among new items in the catalog are: Boys outerwear featuring "Revealair," a waterproof fabric that actually "breathes"; Flame-retardant quilted thermals (underwear) for linemen, construction workers and others exposed to heat and flame; A ne wdoor chain guard which can be locked from outside the home.

On the fashion front, the new catalog indicates that bright fall shades - particularly fuchsias, magentas and scarlets, golds and honeyed spice tones - will dominate the fall scene for children as well as teens and their mothers.

The influence of foreign fashion is shown in the large selection of Italian knit dresses, and in the dresses designed especially for Sears by a top Parisian couturier.

Sears Fashion Board spotlights these trends for fall: flared skirts, pleats, the fluid, relaxed look, overblouses, and tunics.

Prominent in the catalog are sporting clothes and other sporting goods for the entire family personally tested and approved by Ted Williams, famed baseball player and sportsman who now is a consultant for Sears. Among these Ted Williams-certified items are overall sportswear, hunting clothing, insulated clothing, guns and sleeping bags.

The new catalog also introduces the new Allstate Motor Club to catalog customers. Operated by Allstate Enterprises, Inc., a new Sears subsidiary, the motor club is offering charter memberships in its coast-to-coast motoring service.

COLORS DRAW AND REPEL

In choosing paint colors learn a lesson from a midwest restaurant chain which uses bright colors to lure its teen-age customers into its units and depends on the same bright colors to make the customers so restless that they leave without tying up the tables. The walls are "hot" pinks and reds. Doors are painted a clashing bright orange, while tables and chairs are painted in all different colors - reds, yellows, greens, blues and white. No pastels. In choosing your own color schemes, use bright, pure colors only as accents, not on large areas.

PORCH PAINTING

Here's an easy way to paint floors and porches with a long-handled roller that makes bending unnecessary. Pour a small amount of quality floor paint on the floor and then spread it with the roller; this makes re-dipping in the roller tray unnecessary. If the floor is in bad condition, remember that two thin coats will give better service than one heavy coat.

Governor Signs Measure Amending Child Labor Act

HARRISBURG — A bill modernizing the State's Child Labor Law has been signed by Gov. David L. Lawrence. The new provisions of the law, which become effective immediately, are designed to remove unnecessary restrictions on youth employment, with good safeguards.

New regulation of minors employed in public entertainment is an important innovation in the legislation. A special performance certificate to be obtained from the Department of Labor and Industry, will permit boys and girls, of 7-17 inclusive, to be employed in theatrical productions, musical recitals, entertainment acts, modeling, radio, television, motion-picture making and similar forms of entertainment.

No minor may work after 11:30 p.m. nor where alcoholic beverages are sold. Performances are limited to two per day and eight per week. Rehearsal times will be limited. Application for the special permit must be made to the Bureau of Women and Children of the Department of Labor and Industry in Harrisburg.

Before the department can issue the special certificate for employment of children in the entertainment field, it must have guarantees assuring that educational instruction and supervision, health and welfare protection of the child and the safeguarding of his earnings are adequately provided for.

Several other amendments will become important with the opening of school in a few weeks. Male minors may not be employed between the hours of 11 p.m. and 6 a.m. during the school weeks under the new regulations. A minor under 16 enrolled in school may be employed no more than four hours on a school day and no more than 18 hours in a school week.

In the area of hazardous occupations, work on polishing and buffing wheels is now permitted, except for work on emery wheels. This should open up some industrial jobs for 16 and 17 year old boys, previously excluded from these occupations under the broad terms of the original law.

It is no longer necessary for parents of high school graduates to appear in person when applications for employment certificates are made. For other boys and girls under 18, the parent must still appear to give personal consent to the employ-

Wage Floor To Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employers were reminded Sunday that on Sept. 3 the federal minimum wage goes to $1.15 an hour for those already covered. Many thousands more will come under the law for the first time at a starting rate of $1, the present minimum wage.

The Labor Department noted that the present requirement for time-and-a-half pay for all hours over 40 in a workweek will continue to apply for those already covered. For employees newly covered under the act, overtime provisions will not apply until 1963. The newly covered workers are largely in the retail and service fields with specific exceptions for employees of hotels, motels, restaurants, hospitals and a few other service establishments.

The act also increases the penalties for violations of the Child Labor Law; increasing first-offense fines from a minimum of $10 to not less than $50. On subsequent offenses, a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $300 shall be levied.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. J. Russell Custard, Once Active As Republican

THE ORGANIZER and founder of the first teenage Republican organization in the United States died yesterday at 5:05 p.m. in the Monroe County General Hospital after an illness of two months.

Mrs. Romaine B. Custard, 58, of East Stroudsburg RD 1, died after being seriously ill for the past two weeks. She was born in Maplewood a daughter of the late E. J. Black and Millie Schoonover Black.

Mrs. Custard was a graduate of State Teachers College, East Stroudsburg, and Marywood College, Scranton. She was a former school teacher in Wayne County and the public schools of Scranton.

She and her husband, J. Russell Custard operated a summer resort near Marshalls Creek for the past 30 years.

Mrs. Custard is a former president of the Monroe County General Hospital Auxiliary; a board member of the local Red Cross Chapter, Community Chest and Monroe County General Hospital.

In addition to organizing the first teenagers Republican organization she was the first organizer of the Young Republican Club of Monroe County.

Mrs. Custard was also a former president of the Monroe County Council of Republican Women; vice chairlady of the Republican Women's Club of Monroe County and vice chairlady of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women of Northeastern Pennsylvania.

In addition to her husband she is survived by one brother, Orville Black, East Stroudsburg RD 1; three sisters, Mrs. Alma McCane and Mrs. Beatrice Boam, both of Maplewood, and Mrs. Edna Kolp, Cleveland, Ohio.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by the Lanterman Funeral Home.

McMasters was arrested by East Stroudsburg police.

Lawrence Praises Radar As Instrument For Safety

HARRISBURG (AP)—"A silent sentinel, reminding each of us that death plays no favorites. . ."

That, in the words of Gov. Lawrence, will be the chief role played by radar when it becomes a legal means of prosecuting speeders on Pennsylvania highways starting Friday.

While no single machine — no concept by itself — can stop death and injury on the highways, radar now becomes a significant added factor in Pennsylvania's effort to save lives," the governor said Sunday in a statement.

In a weekend statement, O. D. Shipley, highway safety commissioner, told motorists it might be a good idea to have their car speedometers checked for accuracy before radar enforcement begins.

Mental Attitude Worries Kist

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first of a series on army high school football teams. Next—Stroud Union.

JACK KIST, East Stroudsburg High School football coach is worried about his club's mental attitude.

"We have progressed fairly well on the physical side," says Kist, "but the boys don't have a good mental outlook."

Kist hinted that part of the trouble could be the pre-season billing the Cavaliers are receiving. East Stroudsburg is favored to win the Lehigh-Northampton League.

But Kist let his players know how he felt about this first day of practice.

"You don't win football games on publicity," he told the team, "you have to beat a team on the field."

Kist was satisfied to some extent with a two-hour scrimmage Saturday afternoon.

"The offense looked good at times," he said, "but we have a great deal of defensive work to do."

May Be Changes
Kist added that on the basis of Saturday's scrimmage, there might be some changes in his tentative first unit.

"Our defensive line wasn't changing," Kist added, "and we are going to have to put some players in there that will move." "Our line is big but slow and if we are going to win ball games, it is going to have to start moving."

Kist was impressed with the defensive work of tackle Allan Schell, who started the scrimmage as a second teamer and also Mike Boushell, another tackle.

Bud Stann, the Cavaliers' 250-pound junior tackle has not been as impressive as he was in his sophomore year and Kist is more than a little worried.

Changes Made
Kist thought he had at least a tentative first unit but after Saturday, he is not so sure.

He did, however, name the players that had the best chance of making the starting team.

The ends should be Harry Van Vleet and Earl Palmer with Pete Maaser also in the picture. Maaser has been sidelined with an infected elbow and will probably be out for at least two more weeks.

Boushell, Stann and Schell are the top tackle candidates, with Earl Metzgar, Hank Harris and Kirk Nelson the guard standouts. Metzgar is probably the fastest interior lineman and one of the best blockers.

Bob Deiter and Jack Vinyard, both senior lettermen are in the center battle.

The quarterback spot is the only position that Kist does not have an experienced player. Junior Jack Van Horn saw some action last year behind Jack Feilman and did play the entire Nazareth game. Doug Hilyard is the back up quarterback.

Rest Unsatisfied
Kist is not sure how he will line-up the rest of his backfield staff. He may play Harold (Jack 2) Myers, last year's leading scorer and group gainer, at either half or fullback. If Dave Harmon can make the grade at full, Myers will go at left half. But if Harmon doesn't fill the bill, Myers will be the fullback with Jim Steele, junior at left half and Brian Farris, a good breakaway threat at right half.

In Myers, Kist has good power up the middle and Farris is a standout on sweeps. Both players are capable of going the route on any kickoff or punt. Harmon is a good blocker but is on the slow side.

Steele has good speed at short distances and is also a good defensive safetyman.

A surprise starter in the defensive backfield, could be Billy (Half) Nelson, one of the smallest players on the squad. Les Ray, will probably get an offensive shot. Despite his size, Nelson is one of the hardest tacklers on the club. Dick Deiter, who has not reported to the club as yet, may also earn a defensive halfback slot.

Despite his playing talent, Kist still believes that "the club must get a better mental attitude if it is to win."

Pappas Bats, Hurls Birds Over Twins

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) —Milt Pappas smacked two home runs and fired a two-hitter Sunday as the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Minnesota Twins 3-0.

Pappas fanned 11 Minnesota batters in picking up his 10th victory against seven defeats and giving the Orioles a final 11-7 season advantage against the Twins.

Earl Robinson also chipped in with a homer as the Birds rapped six of their eight hits for extra bases.

Ramos Tagged
Pete Ramos was tagged for the loss, his 16th in 25 decisions. The Cuban right-hander gave up all three home runs, bringing his season gopher ball total to 35. Ramos holds the American League record for most home runs allowed in a season with 43 in 1957.

Pappas' second homer, his third of the season, also set an all-time Baltimore home run record, bringing their season total to 124. Baltimore 000 100 010-3 8 1 Minnesota 000 000 000-0 2 1

Angels Rap Boston For 8-3 Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Angels unloaded 13 hits Sunday and dealt the Boston Red Sox their 18th loss in 20 road games, 8-3.

The victory left the Angels alone in seventh place, a game ahead of Minnesota and 2½ games back of Boston.

Right-hander Eli Grba, who had a shutout going until the eighth inning, went the distance for Los Angeles and picked up his seventh victory in 18 decisions.

Rookie right-hander Don Schwall lasted only 3 2/3 innings, gave up six hits and four runs, and took the loss. It was his third defeat in 16 decisions.

Bridges Hot
George Thomas and Kent Hunt drove in two runs apiece for Los Angeles, and Rocky Bridges got three of the Angel hits in four at bats.

Carroll Hardy scored the first Boston run on an eighth inning double by Chuck Schilling. Hardy had singled, taken second on an error, and moved to third on an obstruction call. Pumpsie Green and Hardy homered in the ninth.

Hebert Wins Classic In Quick Death

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Jay Hebert birdied the second hole of a sudden-death playoff Sunday and won the $50,000 American Golf Classic over Gary Player. He had a 20-foot birdie putt on the 18th green, bringing on the playoff.

After blowing a five-stroke lead with nine holes to play, Hebert scrambled to a par four on the first hole of the playoff and finally ended the tournament on the 500-yard, par 5 No. 2.

The victory was worth $9,000 to Hebert, who had a 35-38-73 and a 72-hole total of 278—two under par.

Player, the South Africa star who made three birdies on the back nine in offsetting Hebert's lead, missed an eight-foot birdie putt on the final playoff hole and had to settle for second place and $4,000, boosting his earnings over $60,000 for the year.

Arnold Palmer had a 38-34-72 and finished fourth with 281. The only one among the leaders to break par Sunday was Sam Snead with 33-36-69 and a total of 233 to tie with Doug Ford for fifth place. Tied for seventh with 284 were Ken Venturi, Bob Goalby and Art Wall Jr.

Bomb Delivery China's Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's chief negotiator for a nuclear test ban believes Red China may produce a bomb in 1962 or 1963 but may then still lack an effective means of delivery.

Arthur H. Dean said after the Chinese get what might be a very expensive bomb or a very dirty bomb they have got to invent a vehicle for its delivery with accuracy, and "that's much more difficult."

Dean appeared on a television program taped with Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., just before returning to Geneva for three-party talks to be resumed there Monday.

Dean said the Soviets are not helping the Chinese to get the bomb. "That's one of the causes of friction between Mao Tse-Tung, the Chinese premier, and Premier Khrushchev," he said.

Dean said that Chinese possession of a bomb not only would be a serious matter for the free world but he believes "it would also pose a serious threat to Russia and that's what we're hoping to accomplish by this nuclear test ban—the stopping of further nuclear weapons."

The United States opposed last week a Soviet proposal to suspend the U.S.-British-Russian talks at Geneva. Dean denounced as "negative" Soviet Premier Khrushchev's proposal that the test ban conference be merged with disarmament talks.

But Dean told Keating he thinks there is some chance of getting some disarmament agreements "We could probably get certain agreements with the Soviets on the question of surprise attack or attack by miscalculation which they probably would keep because they're in their own interest to keep," he said.

Keating asked if Dean thinks the Soviets have been testing during the voluntary moratorium.

"We have absolutely no evidence that they have and we have absolutely no evidence that they have not," Dean replied.

GOP Pushes O'Brien's Candidacy

HARRISBURG (AP)—Pennsylvania Republicans, looking ahead to next year's gubernatorial election, are ready to wage an all-out campaign to elect a State Supreme Court justice in November.

From Chairman George I. Bloom down there is strong feeling that the outcome of this fall could give a good idea of how things might turn out in 1962.

For that reason, GOP sources said Sunday, the party is gearing its machinery for a concerted campaign to elect Judge Henry X. O'Brien of Allegheny County to the high court.

The sources, who declined to be identified, said details of the campaign—including an intensive voter registration drive—will be made public after Labor Day.

O'Brien himself reflected the party's feeling here Saturday in accepting the nomination.

"... It will be on our performance this year that the people will determine if we are fit to take over the government of Pennsylvania,"

O'Brien, who looks much younger than his 57 years, will oppose Democrat Atty. Gen. Anne X. Alpern for the court vacancy, created by the resignation of Chief Justice Charles Alvin Jones.

Gov. Lawrence recently appointed Miss Alpern, a former Allegheny County judge, to an interim appointment on the high court. She will resign as attorney general Monday prior to becoming a justice.

Republicans also adopted a resolution accusing Lawrence and U. S. Rep. William J. Green, Philadelphia Democratic chairman, of "a callous attempt to force the legislature to accept the Democratic plan" on reapportionment.

That plan proposed retaining six congressional seats in Philadelphia by absorbing parts of Delaware and Bucks counties.

Bloom also attacked Democrats for proposing a 2 per cent tax on unearned income (royalties, dividends and capital gains) to pay for education improvements in the current fiscal year.

The levy was approved by the Democratic-controlled House last week without one GOP vote. It is now before the Senate.

Bloom said the proposal would be the forerunner of an income tax if it is approved. He urged Republican senators to vote against it.

One officer said the scene of the capture was a city dump.

Welter has been hunted since the slaying of James Jantz, 25, of Baraboo, a Sauk county traffic patrolman. Jantz was shot to death early Monday in midtown Lake Delton.

Lake Delton Police Chief Robert Kohl, 46, was seriously wounded when he and Jantz attempted to question three men about their wild spending in Wisconsin resorts. Kohl is recovering from his wounds.

The three gunmen fled the slaying scene, but their automobile piled up near Lyndon Station. One of the occupants, Richard Nickl, 28, of Prospect Heights, Ill., was recaptured when bullet wounds prevented him from fleeing the wrecked auto.

Lawrence Nutley, 25, of Chicago, was caught about four miles north of Wisconsin Dells Tuesday. Nutley and Nickl have been charged with first degree murder.

Notified to Bidders

Sealed bids will be received by the Borough of Stroudsburg for the construction of 1302 feet of concrete curb on Fetherman Street and 1248 feet of concrete curb on Lee Avenue, in the Borough of Stroudsburg, Monroe County, Pa.

Copies of plans and specifications may be examined at the office of the Stroudsburg Borough Manager in the Municipal Building, Stroudsburg, Pa. Copies of the said documents may be obtained upon payment of Ten Dollars ($10.00) and a refund of the same will be made when the successful bidder is determined.

Each proposal shall be accompanied by a check for $250.00 drawn in favor of the Borough of Stroudsburg. The check will be retained as liquidated damages in case the successful bidder shall neglect or refuse to enter into a contract in accordance with his bid.

The successful bidder is required to furnish a Performance Bond in the amount of the contract price plus 10 per cent of the contract price, and to furnish a copy of the same to the Borough of Stroudsburg.

Poses As Red; Finds Confusion

NEW YORK (AP)—A Russian-speaking reporter who went around town posing as a Soviet visitor with no knowledge of English says the result was "five bewildering days filled with Marx brothers confusion."

People called cops, denounced him as a Communist, charged him $2.40 for a pack of Soviet cigarettes selling for no more than 89 cents, soaked him $8.56 for lunch, and treated him like a criminal when he tried to use Soviet currency. But many tried to be helpful.

The reporter was Michael Mok, a staff writer for the New York World-Telegram & Sun.

Mok was particularly impressed by one thing: "I noticed that Americans assume that foreigners are either deaf, or will ultimately understand English if it is shouted loudly enough."

FORCED TO FLEE WITHOUT THEIR BABY

...NOW SHE'S HOME

When Mr. and Mrs. Varga fled Hungary for their lives, they had to leave their daughter, Ester Ilona, with relatives. For four years, the brutal Kadar regime refused the child an exit visa. But continuous beseeching by dedicated Americans finally obtained the child's release—the first since the 1956 revolution.

Ester's present happiness is a direct result of Americans supporting the Overseas Aid Program of their faith. While this case is Catholic, all three great faiths—Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish—maintain far-reaching programs.

The work goes on, day in and day out... and it must continue. These religion-sponsored endeavors often provide the only hope for the free world's destitute. The next time you are asked to support your faith's Overseas Aid Program, remember that your contribution will make it possible for other lives to be free from fear and terror.

The Daily Investor

You Are Creditor

By William A. Doyle
Q. I own a $1,000 par value bond, issued by a railroad. This bond pays five percent (5%) interest once a year — on April 1. It is my understanding that interest on bonds must be paid before the company can pay any dividends on its stock. This railroad pays dividends on its common stock four times a year.

I collected my latest interest payment in April. A dividend was paid on the common stock in June. Another dividend will be paid in September. I presume that dividends will be paid in December and March.

Suppose those dividend payments use up all the railroad's cash on hand and there is no money left to meet the next interest payment on the bonds. Do I and the other bondholders have any protection against this possibility?

A. There's not much doubt that you do. You, as a bondholder, are a creditor of the railroad. The railroad owes you $1,000 and is pledged to pay back that $1,000 to you when the bonds mature. In the meantime, the railroad is pledged to pay you annual interest at the rate of five percent.

The stockholders are part owners of the company. Interest obligations on the debt must be met, before dividends can be paid on the stock. Furthermore, debt securities normally have provisions to prevent a company from passing out its cash to stockholders, with the result that there would be nothing in the till to pay bond interest.

These "protective provisions" are written into the "indenture" covering the issue of each debt security. The provisions vary from one debt issue to another. For instance, an indenture covering a debt security might require the issuing company to maintain a certain cash reserve. If that reserve dropped below a certain figure, the company would be prohibited from paying dividends on its stock.

You might find these provisions in the small print on your bond. If you need more information on a specific bond issue, write to the company which has issued the bond.

Q. When I buy or sell stock, is my broker permitted to send me a confirmation statement showing only the lump sum I receive when I sell or pay when I buy? My broker states that 95 percent of his accounts are handled in this manner, without questioning. To me, this is not satisfactory. I would like to get an itemized statement showing, the price at which my order was executed, the commission, transfer taxes, SEC fee and all other charges.

Am I being a problem customer?

A. No, you're not. This broker sounds like some kind of a nut. Under Federal law the broker does not have to itemize all that information on your confirmation statements. But he must provide all that information if you request it.

So, as a matter of practice, most brokerage firms do send out confirmation statements with all that information on it. I've never seen one that didn't.

And you are also entitled to the name of the brokerage house on the other end of your transactions, if you ask. Some brokers print this information on confirmation statements, as a practice. Some don't.

Peace Corps No Escape From Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Anybody who joins the Peace Corps to avoid the draft is going to be a disappointed volunteer," Director R. Sargent Shriver Jr. said Sunday.

Shriver said this in a TV interview with Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., which was recorded before a Miami draft board refused to defer Charles Kamen, 21, a Peace Corps trainee who is the center of a hot controversy in and out of Congress.

Kamen last year was ejected from a Miami Rotary Club meeting after he took exception to portions of the film "Operation Abolition."

The documentary, produced by the House Committee on Un-American Activities, purports to depict Communist participation in youth demonstrations against a committee hearing. Critics of the committee say it is distorted.

Still in Training

Shriver in the interview repeated essentially his earlier comments on demands that Kamen be summarily dismissed by the Peace Corps.

"This boy has apologized publicly for his conduct on that occasion and he is still in our training program at Penn State University," Shriver said.

But he said Kamen has not been selected as a Peace Corps member, that his performance in training still has to be considered and that the FBI will check on him, as it does on all Peace Corps selectees.

Celler asked Shriver whether whether the corps was "going to let any Rotary Club or any John Birch Society dictate to you who is going to be sent or who is not going to be sent."

Shriver said decisions about applicants would be made "on the basis of the whole record." He agreed with Celler that if a selectee joined a White Citizens'

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Jones of Mountain Road are contenting themselves with cards as a greeting to their son Michael Martin for his birthday; for they took a trip down to Fort Worth, Texas, in June to visit their son and his wife. The trip by car proved a pleasant change from flying down. Martin, a veteran, is in Arlington State College studying chemical engineering. His wife also attends college.

Mrs. Robert Richards and daughters, Nancy and Jennifer, returned Saturday from a Council, "in and of itself that's not going to bar him."

As to the draft status of Peace Corpsmen, without any reference to Kamen, Shriver said: "In the Peace Corps you do not get an exemption from the draft; you do get a deferment from the draft while you are in the Peace Corps. After you finish with the Peace Corps you are treated just like any other citizen."
